

Matthew Sabatella & the Rambling String Band

Ballad of America

songs of people who made a country

Live Performances

"Matthew Sabatella and the Rambling String Band are totally amazing! I cannot praise them enough! They are personable, relate to the audience and can perform almost anything I'm sure."

Nancy Ansley (Programs and Exhibits Supervisor), Broward County Library

With vocals, guitar, banjo, fiddle, mandolin, bass fiddle, mountain dulcimer, and a wealth of traditional American folk songs, Matthew Sabatella and the Rambling String Band bring the story of the United States vividly to life. Audiences, young and old, sing and dance along to familiar songs as well as virtually forgotten gems that reveal the dreams, hardships, and joys of people who built homes and lives in a fledgling nation.

Featuring fiddle tunes, folk songs, Old World ballads, work songs, spirituals, love songs, sea shanties, reels, play parties, breakdowns, and blues, Concerts and Special Programs explore the songs, music, and instruments of colonists, pioneers, sailors, lumberjacks, immigrants, '49ers, farmers, mountaineers, slaves, soldiers, cowboys, and railroaders. Concerts include a wide variety of songs and themes, and Special Programs are focused on a particular topic or era in the history of the United States (railroads, cowboys, rivers, Abraham Lincoln, etc.).

Matthew Sabatella and the Rambling String Band delight audiences in virtually any venue:
